

Letter Of Recommendation

It makes me extremely happy to write this recommendation letter in support of Ms. Ishita Choudhary. I have known her since (mention year) in my position at ABC University where she was under my tutelage for the subject of Periodontology. I have also monitored her performance as an intern and recognize her as a dedicated and assiduous individual who takes keen interest in research assignments related to the field of oral biology.

Academically she is an excellent student, with brilliant record, especially in the subjects that I have taught her and the fact she has been among the top 15 students of the class further indicates the consistency that she has managed to maintain so far. Not just academics, she is equally focused towards acing the extra-curricular activities that she is involved and due to her strong organizational skills has served in multiple capacities (Member and Cultural Secretary) at different student bodies. She regularly participated in scientific paper presentations and attended various conferences including a national level conference conducted by Govt. of India on the topic of "Oral Health Innovations". In this conference, held at All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi, she even presented her scientific research paper and was ranked among the top two presenters of the event (was ranked second).

Owing to her affinity for research, she has undertaken a research project under my guidance which aimed at identifying relationship between severity in covid symptoms and poor oral hygiene. Since she was required to be posted in covid ward for three months, it was surely a challenging project. However, remaining undaunted by the risk involved, she exhibited an incredible courage and on the basis of sheer optimism decided to go ahead with the assignment. Working fervently, she proved herself to be adept handling various aspects ranging from designing accurate yet customized treatment plans for the patients to independently carrying out minor surgical procedures. Although she was impressive with her openness to learn new concepts and disciplined regime in following the strict restrictions, what really struck me was the perfect blend of patient care skills and medical knowledge that she displayed.

Having witnessed her astounding technical skill-set and quest for gaining significant knowledge, I am sure that she would be able to enhance her academic adeptness via this course and will become realize her aspiration of becoming an astute professional. I therefore, endorse her application.

Dr. Saanvi Patel
Dean and H.O.D
ABC University