

Letter Of Recommendation

It is with immense happiness that I am writing this letter of recommendation for my student Mr. Raj Malhotra. I have known him through our academic interactions as he was under my tutelage for the subjects of Electrical Energy Generation, and Utilization and Conservation. In our association of around (mention number of years) years, the impression I formed of him was that of a responsible and helpful student who was confident and poised.

He is an intelligent individual with a strong desire to learn, always regular to the lectures and not only does he raises relevant queries to clear his doubts but is equally good at answering questions quickly and remains perceptive in the class. The relevant example he cites in his answers makes the discussions highly intellectual and most of the time includes novel concepts which eventually benefit his fellow students. Academically his performance has been exemplary in the subjects that I taught him and is reflected in his high scores. He has flair for getting the basics right and in his quest never dithers from exploring the idea of conducting extensive literature review or studying from multiple sources. He has been vocal regarding his future goals and has regularly shared them with me. Having mentored him, I believe that he has a rich blend of knowledge, skills and temperament, and I am convinced that he would be successful in realizing his ambitions.

He was under my guidance on a project titled, "Improving Accuracy of Minimum Turning Circle Setting of Commercial Vehicles". This project was administered by the Ashok Leyland and subsequently was awarded the first rank by the Indian Society for Technical Education. In this project, requiring the team to develop the device from the scratch, he was involved in all the phases of the project and made significant contributions towards their on-time completion well within the deadline. He made sincere efforts to understand the mandate accurately, looked to work within the given criteria, and managed the constraints efficiently. Furthermore, following a positive approach, he took the challenges head-on irrespective of the complexity level and applying the learning optimally came up with pragmatic yet precise solutions. Being a versatile personality he is active with his participation in extra-curricular activities and has been associated with many events both as a participant and organizer.

I think this course will help Raj in acquiring in-depth knowledge and would prepare him well for future opportunities. I, therefore, wholeheartedly recommend his application.

Aanya Bhatt
Professor
ABC University