

Letter Of Recommendation

I am happy to recommend my student, Ms. Riya Sharma for (program name) from (university name). I have known her since (mention year) and instructed her in the subjects of Electrotherapy, Musculoskeletal Physiotherapy. In my interactions with her over time, I found her to be an avid learner with clarity on relevant medical concepts, and the ability to work diligently.

She possesses excellent grasping power and is good at picking complex models. In her quest to keep abreast with the latest trends and technologies related to her field, she regularly follows research papers and participates in internal training. Being a creative person, she often employs innovative techniques for devising treatment protocols and strives to introduce innovation to make the whole process as efficient as possible. Her initial response to any challenge is impressive as she is not bogged down by the level of complications involved, rather looks for solutions and alternatives she can opt for to resolve it. Even amidst pressure situations, she exhibits a composed demeanor, focuses on optimally utilizing the available resources, and manages time well to meet deadlines.

I have mentored her on multiple cases during musculoskeletal OPD and Orthopedic IPD postings and was also her final year project guide. Her final year project was related to the translation of cross-cultural adaptation and validation of musculoskeletal health questionnaire in the Marathi Language. Since the original questionnaire was prepared by Oxford innovations, the project was an initiative to make the aforementioned questionnaire available in the local Indian language. Working on this maiden assignment to translate the questionnaire in Marathi, she handled all the tasks end-to-end, and also presented a scientific paper on the same topic. Presenting the paper in an E-conference conducted by ABC'S Physiotherapy College, Pune, she impressed everyone with her articulate explanation, confident delivery of the findings to a large audience, and subsequently ranked among the top two performers.

Additionally, she regularly participates in various intra-college fashion shows and dance competitions and was part of the team winning the group dance competition in the academic year (Mention academic year as e.g. 2012-13). Just like academics and extra-curricular activities, she takes out time for social causes and is associated with XYZ as a college representative. In this role, she has attended many medical camps held in rural areas for her effort was awarded a silver medal in community medicine.

To sum up, I think Riya is an ideal medical student with the requisite skills needed for this course, which will further assist her in acquiring deep know-how of the subjects she is interested in. I, therefore, endorse her application.
