

Letter Of Recommendation

I am glad to provide this letter of recommendation on behalf of Mr. Aditya Bansal as he attempts to pursue his higher studies at your esteemed university. He is acquainted with me via our professional interactions at ABC Company since (mention year). Basis my observation of him, I can attest that he is an assiduous individual with multi-tasking abilities, perseverance, and enthusiasm to learn new things.

He is well-organized, focuses on promoting automation wherever possible, and in his quest for streamlining the work process deploys multiple techniques to complete his work efficiently. Despite his sound technical knowledge, he is up for gaining more knowledge, enrolling into various courses, and participating in internal training to keep himself abreast with the latest technological trends in Data Science. His knack for learning is such that he is willing to learn from his mistakes and I often notice him conducting a deep introspection of his performance to improve upon his existing knowledge. Additionally with his ability to adapt to a challenging environment, he also inspires others with his never spontaneity and motivates them to do well even in pressing situations.

I have supervised him on two projects, titled, "Media Recommendation System" and "Lead to Client Conversion Prediction". While the first project was about building a recommendation system to suggest media items for financial advisors based on season trends and their behavioral history, the second project developed a Naïve Bayes classifier to predict the chance of an advisor's lead getting converted into a client. In both these projects, he performed selflessly for the team cause, showed his affinity for the team spirit and it was amazing to witness him acting like a true team player and always giving priority to the overall team's objectives. Furthermore, I cannot but admire his strong interpersonal abilities through which he facilitated the assigned work and ensured participation from everyone. Although he was aptly recognized for his significant contributions technically, I believe the fact that he concurrently was available to back his colleagues, makes these accomplishments all the more substantial.

On a personal level, Aditya is a vivacious person, takes interest in an array of activities from technical to sports (Badminton and Football) and needless to say excels in this sphere too. To sum up, I would say that given his passion for Data Science, this course is the right next step for him in terms of career advancement, and hence, I affirm my recommendation for him.

Manoj Shah
Senior Manager
ABC Company