Scholarship Essay

Interdisciplinary studies have meandered flawlessly into the market and are one of the most preferred ways of working in various realms. Pursuing an MS in Finance and Management from St. Paul's University will empower me to utilize my coding skills learned during the Bachelor's in Computer Science program. I am equipped with concepts like statistical inference, probability theory, Analytical skills, and mathematical models using analytical approaches. These are significant learnings that will make me perpetuate with ease to the next academic journey that will be smoother through the scholarship.

I have taken all steps to enhance my knowledge and the NIS-Series-XII and XV, where I have accomplished Research Analyst Certification and Equity Derivatives Certification. In addition, I will be taking an exam in August 2023 for the CFA level 1. To prepare for this, I have learned many concepts that will motivate me to further my studies.

Besides, academic learning and certification, I have always been at the forefront of attaining practical experience. My job at Emeritus and my first-hand experience in the derivatives market have been all-encompassing. My association with the Community of Merchants is a glorification of my learning where all the associates organize trading webinars for upcoming and learning traders. As a community, I also attend Merchants Carnival which is conducted annually by Finance Control. This has allowed me to have diverse strategies and thoughts and I have enjoyed my learning so far.

Working with FTSE 200 company Emeritus wherein I worked in USA Branch Accounting and kept and managed the USA Accounts. The most important aspect that I have learned from Emeritus was the internal functioning of a Global Banking giant. I also bring in my experience of more than 2 years in the derivatives market, in which as a full-time derivatives trader and a Computer Engineer.

I am self-sponsoring my education from my parents, relatives, and personal savings. As much as I seek to attain international educational exposure, I also intend to reflect on the fact that I lack the requisite funds to support my education. At this stage in my career, I can only partly fund my studies (up to 30%), and I cannot burden my parents with huge amounts to support my education as they have their liabilities. Also, since the coronavirus outbreak, I have been struggling to manage my finances, and I find it quite difficult to set aside additional funds to manage my tuition fees and living expenses.

A scholarship will give me the much-needed financial support in such trying times and will allow me to completely focus on my studies, without having to worry about my fees. At the University, I bring with me a strong academic propensity, a predilection for research, ample professional exposure, and an unwavering zeal to excel. If presented with the scholarship, I assure you that I will multiply its worth by proving to be a valuable addition to the cohort.
